Things to do in Hong Kong this February 2021

Ah, the age-old question on a Friday evening. What to do? Where to go? What's next and new? The city-wide restrictions — boo, 6pm dine-in bans — have probably changed your queries from “What's on?” to “What's still on?” So, if you're itching your head for things to do this month, look no further than this handy little list.

Ernest Chang: Bling Dynasty

When: 20 February – 4 April

Hong Kong is often christened the city that brings the East and West together; it's no wonder so many artists and creatives use this as a modus operandi.

Bling Dynasty — Ernest Chang of The Stallery's newest exhibition — explores this very tenet, with iconic cartoon characters from shows like 'South Park' and 'Rick and Morty' dressed in traditional Asian garb. Pop art, brought back to the Tang and Han Dynasties.
