

10 Must-See Art Exhibitions In Hong Kong In February 2021

The best art exhibitions to see in Hong Kong this February (Photo: Courtesy of The Stallery)

By Zabrina Lo

February 01, 2021

February's exhibitions take you around the world, thanks to international artists who have documented their culture in their work

Don't Say Anything Mean (2020) (Courtesy of The Stallery)

Hong Kong-based American Chinese multi-disciplinary artist Ernest Chang was diagnosed with red-green colour-blindness, but this doesn't stop him from exploring art. In his exhibition Bling Dynasty, his new works are created with techniques from Western and Chinese art and handicraft traditions, including silkscreen prints on plexiglass, resin and bronze sculptures, embroidery as well as calligraphy. Known for confronting contemporary mass culture and consumerism, Chang combines pop art with Tang and Han Dynasty painting iconography. One can find visual references from animations and games such as South Park, Rick and Morty and Family Guy. The resulting visual juxtaposition offers a tongue-in-cheek commentary on the domination of Chinese consumerism on the global marketplace.

From February 20 to April 4, 2021. G/E, 82A Stone Nullah Lane, Wan Chai, Hong Kong. Find out more at thestallery.com